Scoutmaster Minute

“The object of the patrol method is not so much saving the Scoutmaster trouble as to give responsibility to the boy.” Lord Baden-Powell

We will be changing patrols this next week and ushering in our new patrol leaders and troop leadership positions. Part of scouting is learning what leadership is and how to work with others.

Every 6 months we change leadership positions and give scouts the opportunity to try a position of responsibility in the troop. It is a learning experience for both the boy and the adult. But the troop has survived this transition for over 60 years and we have produced boys that have become good citizens and leaders.

Thank you to all the boys who have served this past term in leadership, you have done a good job with all the difficulties that we have faced with our COVID online meetings.

Congratulations to all the boys who have been elected new patrol leaders by your peers.

Greetings!

Our Greatest Contribution

"I thank my God.....for your fellowship in the gospel, from the first day until now -Phil. 1:3-5

A father and mother were having some difficulty in interesting their little daughter in the study of geography. They schemed to help her by purchasing for her a jigsaw puzzle map of the United States. They were sure that this would. Be a valuable geographical project. To their amazement she was able to assemble the map on a remarkable short time. They asked her how she did it, and she explained that on the opposite side of the map was a picture puzzle of the face of George Washington. This further word from her was especially thought-provoking: "When you get the man put together right, the United States comes out all right."

There is a deep truth in that child's comment. The best way to put things together as they should be, in society, in the nation, and in the world, is for us to have our separate and individual lives put together properly. The whole is made up of the sum total of its individual parts. There is primarily no more important part which we can play today as individuals than to present to the nation and the world a good life.

The finest and most successful way to achieve this good life is to have our lives inspired and molded daily after the example, purpose, and teaching of Jesus Christ. He has been the source of the noblest and most useful living the world has ever known. Let us keep our eyes day by day upon the King.

This is from the "Strength for Service : To God and Country devotional that we give out to Eagle Scouts. I thought it appropriate for us during this time of unrest in our country and normal lives with COVID to reflect on what we can do to help make our community a better place.
